

Card Show Plan of Attack

Saturday, September 5, 2026 · TCGplayer market as of Sep 4
214 units in the car · $2,026 market · $1,199 cost

3 Loose packs price discovery, sleeved first, last resort 214 units · $1,199 cost · $2,026 market

ITEM	QTY	COST	MARKET	80% FLOOR	85% ASK	90% GREAT
Destined Rivals Sleeved Booster Pack	40	$7.74 $309.60 all 40	$11.10	$9.00	$9.50	$10.00
Attack of the Vine! Sleeved Booster Pack	12	$6.62 $79.44 all 12	$11.31	$9.25	$9.50	$10.25
Surging Sparks Booster Pack	20	$5.00 $100.00 all 20	$7.90	$6.50	$6.75	$7.00
Destined Rivals Booster Pack	142	$5.00 $710.00 all 142	$9.07	$7.50	$7.75	$8.25

- The room is bidding 70-75%, so Destined Rivals bundles have a hard stop at $59. That is what TradePost nets you after freight, and it is more than a 75% table offer of $51. Below $59 stop selling here and mail them: all five together net $294 through TradePost, which even 85% of market ($285) does not beat.
- Lead with the comp, not the price. "TCGplayer market on these is $0 for the twelve. I'm at $0." Let him counter into the middle. The per-bundle column is there so you can price any subset on the spot if he only wants some.
- Why 80% is the floor. eBay nets 84.7% of your ask and you list under market, so a completed eBay sale lands near 79% of market. Cash at 80% ties that with no fee, no label and no wait. Your measured card show clear on bundles has been 87%, which is the settle number.
- Sleeved beats loose. Sleeved Destined Rivals market is $11.10 against $9.07 loose, so quote them separately and lead with sleeved.
- These are rounded. Quarters under $20, dollars above. The 80% column rounds up so it is a true floor; 85% and 90% round to nearest and can sit under a point. Worst gap is 94 cents.
- Not in the car: the Ascended Heroes ETB (holding it), and 11 units of 30th Celebration that do not release until Sep 16.